Obituary

Doris Elizabeth Castle was born February 5, 1915 in Farragut, Iowa to William Miller and Elva (Cox) Miller. She died December 22, 2004 at the Clarkson Hospital in Omaha, Nebraska at the age of 89.

Doris spent her entire life in the Farragut area and graduated from Farragut high school. On February 28, 1953, Doris was married to Glenn Castle at the United Methodist Church in Farragut, Iowa. The couple then resided in the Shenandoah area. Doris was a homemaker for the majority of her life, however, in the 1940's, Doris did work for Henry Fields.

Doris volunteered at the Gardenview Care Center, she was a member of the First United Methodist Church, as well as neighborhood clubs. Doris enjoyed socializing while selling eggs to her customers. She was also known for being a meticulous record keeper. Doris once told her niece that the farthest she had been away from home was Independence, MO., on her and Glenn's honeymoon; she said she never wanted to go that far away from home again.

Doris is preceded in death by her parents, husband Glenn, and brother Derrell Miller. She is survived by sister-in-law Connie Miller of Hortense, GA; nephew W. Bryan Miller and wife Rita of Hortense, GA; nephew Douglas Miller of Dallas, TX; niece Maureen McCord of Hortense, GA; niece Melinda McKim and husband Jeff of Macon, GA; many great nieces and nephews along with a host of friends.
